20-Hour Week Program to Be Broadcast Today

The Edward R. Murrow Show, "Hidden Revolution," will be broadcast at 9:30 p.m. on CBS's Radio Station KNX today, Chamber of Commerce President Fred W. Mill said today.

Most of the material on the half-hour network show was obtained in Torrance by Dr. Arthur Barron of New York during his recent five-day visit. He interviewed education, civic, industry, and welfare leaders through cooperation of the Chamber.

The program will discuss pros and cons of what people think of a 20-hour work week in the future. Dr. Barron said he visited Torrance as a base for his program due to Longren Aircraft's 3-day weekend for employees and because of the excellent national reputation of the "All-America City"—particularly in the field of citizen participation in civic affairs.

MAKE CHEST GOAL

Rolling Hills became the first Harbor Area city to make its goal, reporting $7255 or 101.34 per cent at the Los Angeles Area report meeting, Friday, Dec. 12.

Torrance Firm Sets Metal Price

Lawrence A. Harvey, Chairman of the Board of Harvey Aluminum, announced to the Aluminum Extruders Council Conference in Washington, D.C., the company's price for aluminum pig, ingot and billet now being produced at its reduction plant in The Dalles, Ore. Base price is 24.7 cents per pound for 99.85 plus purity aluminum pig. The company's normal terms are 30 days net.

Harvey stated that his company's delivered prices will at all times be competitive with

Saxon Gridders Honored at Party

Eighty North High School varsity gridders and coaches were guests at a Christmas party in their honor given Tuesday night at Higgins Brick Patio.

The affair, of which Councilman Nicholas O. Draie was chairman, was given in celebration of the Saxons' winning the Pioneer League championship.

Steak dinners, a movie of the game with Long Beach Poly in the CIF playoffs and a short talk by North High Coach Bob Shoup highlighted the evening.

BACKS EMPEROR—Rodney E. Hartwell shows his appointment as California chairman of the Restoration Association which seeks to return the monarchy to Austria. Hartwell says he is interested in the move as the way to counter Communist influence in eastern Europe.

Torrance Man Gets Post as Potential King Maker

Although a 10th generation American, Rodney E. Hartwell is working for the restoration of monarchy.

But he has the former Austro-Hungarian Empire, rather than the U.S. in mind for his king-maker role.

Hartwell, 21, a history major at Long Beach State College, wants to restore the House of Hapsburg to the Austrian throne, not so much because he likes royalty, but as a step to wrest eastern European countries from the hold of Communism.

"The movement is gaining momentum. The purpose of course is more economic than political," states Hartwell, who resides at 18002 Faysmith Ave.

The northside resident said that a former Austrian countess, who now resides in Mexico City, learned that he had an interest in putting the son of the last Austrian emperor back on the throne.

She secured him his post as California chairman of the Restoration Association, headed by Baron Herbert J. Hinkel of New York.

"My principal job will be writing and preparing literature and lectures on the Hapsburgs," said Hartwell.

He said that formation of a government in exile, to be headed by Emperor Otto, is now under consideration. Otto, now residing in Germany, is the eldest son of the last emperor.

Hartwell claims that the monarchy would probably be the best way to keep countries that form the Danubian Valley together, and be the most effective against the Reds.

But even if he obtains a position with an Austrian government in exile, Hartwell says he will not give up his American citizenship.

Eye Old City Hall

Use of the old city hall building at Cravens Ave. and El Prado by the municipal water department, was urged this week by the Torrance Water Commission.

In his letter, Chairman R. P. Hogue, suggested that the building might also house the power and gas companies which are privately owned.
